A Safe 6 1/2 Per Cent. Bond
Shocking Bolshevism

By Arthur Brisbane

FINANCIAL PAGES of daily newspapers announce a public offering of $12,000,000 first mortgage 6 1/2 per cent. bonds, personally guaranteed by William Randolph Hearst. These bonds are a first mortgage on Mr. Hearst's newspaper properties in California, the San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Call and Post, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Oakland Post-Enquirer. The bonds also constitute a first mortgage on the following magazines: Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, Harper's Bazar, Motor and Motor Boating.

THE NET profit on these properties last year was more than $4,000,000. The properties, therefore, earn enough money to pay off the bond issue once every two years. These bonds are SAFE. Buy them. If you have money that you would like to invest with absolute safety at 6 1/2 per cent. interest for a few years.

YOU CAN invest any amount from $100 to $100,000. Apply to Halsey Stuart & Co., of New York city, or the American National Bank of San Francisco, or of any banker or broker.

The bonds will cost your actual face value, without any premium, plus whatever interest may have accrued upon them before you buy them.

IMMEDIATELY upon learning that these bonds were to be sold, the writer telegraphed a good friend in San Francisco, Herbert Fleischacker, president of the Anglo & London Paris National Bank of San Francisco, or of any banker or broker.

The value of the properties mortgaged under these bonds is far in excess of the modest statement issued by the bankers. This writer will gladly undertake to form a syndicate to buy TWO of the ten publications bonded for a price equal to the total amount of the bond issue, leaving out all of the magazines, which are among the most profitable in the United States, and leaving out three of the five newspapers.

THIS is printed to give people of modest means a chance to make a safe investment at 6 1/2 per cent. interest.

Fifty thousand dollars invested in these bonds today, with interest returned, would yield $100,000 at the end of twelve years, when the last of the bonds is paid off. That is a good way to make your money for you, while you work for more money.

THE RUSSIAN government is importing shipsloads of meat from South America, a practice and a half pound in the first lot. The idea is to break the high price of meat and provide cheap food for the Russian people.

In the name of holy vested rights and lofty financial morality, did you ever hear of anything more thoroughly socialist, anarchistic and bolshevistic than that? Let us pray that as usual the U. S. government may ever reach this happy land.

Girl's Letter Clue to Child Slayer

Reward in Providence Case Is Raised to $1500; Suspect Held; Letter Is Clue

Providence, R. I., April 29.—A letter found today in the woods at Lincoln, near the body of nine-year-old Clementine Coma was discovered, has led the chase for the slayer to Providence.

Two other developments today were the offer of an additional $1000 reward for capture of the slayer and the holding of one suspect for questioning in the case.

The Colored Worsted Mill of Providence added the $1000 reward, making a total of $1500 now posted for the slayer.

Chief of Police Knox of Lincoln and a squad of Providence inspectors are scouring the city for "Bill," the recipient of the letter which now figures in the case. They are also endeavoring to locate "Ethel," the writer of the letter.

The letter was found after a careful search of the ground near the scene of the crime. It was covered with dirt, the writing being scarcely legible. Near it were several sheets of paper, taken from the order book of a dayman.

The police were able to decipher enough of the postmark on the letter to show that it had been mailed in Providence January 1.

SUSPECT IS HUNTED.

It was impossible to tell the name of the person to whom the letter was addressed, but the "Dear Bill," with which the letter opens, is the clue on which police are working.

"Ethel" and "Clarence," the latter evidently a school boy, are also mentioned in the letter.

Within a few hours police believe they will have located both the "Bill" and "Ethel" of the letter and find out what they know about the nine-year-old child met her death.

Another description of the slayer has been furnished. Police are seeking a young man who, on the day the girl disappeared, wore a dark cap, blue jacket and brown slippers.

This description of the man who carried the little victim away last Tuesday in his automobile and then attacked and murdered her, was a citizen of this country, was pointed out, however, that the young woman took out her first citizenship papers last May 4, 1923.

He pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Dog Loses Own Life Saving 8 Persons in Burning Home

Lamberton, N. Y., April 29.—The lives of eight persons were saved by a collie dog when the farmhouse of Leo S. Morrison burned to the ground today. The dog sacrificed its own life in saving the household.

Morrison was awakened by the dog barking at the bedchamber, to find the house in flames. With the help of his wife and cousin, James Morrison, he carried his five children to safety.

The body of the dog was later found in the ruins.

$3,500 LOST FOR BOGGS PHONE TALK

Breaks into Apartments of Greek Consul on Commonwealth Avenue

A thief who posed as a telephone workman and "barged" (that William Anastasi, Greek consul in Boston, expected to be absent from his apartment at No. 1480 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, looted the place of jewelry and clothing valued at $3,500.

Mr. Anastasi, going to the apartment to get his handkerchief before leaving for his summer home in Manchester, surprised the thief at work and saved Oriental rugs and antiques valued at $2,000, which were hurriedly taken away.

As the consul entered the front door of his apartment, the thief ran out the rear and escaped in an auto. He had packed in front of the building.

Earlier in the day, a man called Mr. Anastasi on the telephone.

"I'm from the telephone company and I want to put a dial on your apartment phone," the stranger said. Mr. Anastasi, who is also a cotton broker with office on State street, let him in.

"Just hum up the mink," she lives in another part of the building, and she will let you in," the consul told the stranger.

The man didn't bother hunting up the mink. He jammed his way into the apartment and had made away with one lot of loot when his work was interrupted. A fur coat, dress and a $100 suitcase and a valuable linen were a part of the booty secured.

WEEKS IS JAMMED IN BIG GRAB

Congressman Gives Warning of a Scheme to Turn Over Muscle Shoals to British

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, April 29 (Universal Service).—Warning of a plot by which Secretary of War John W. Weeks can deliver Muscle Shoals to the J. G. White Company, New York financiers and promoters, and the Air Nitrates Corporation, alleged to be dominated by British capital, was served upon Congress by Representative George Huddleston of Alabama.

The J. G. White Company, which has come forward with Elton H. Hooper and W. W. Atterbury in the last weeks with a counter bid for Muscle Shoals, is disclosed as a sham promotion from which Secretary of War Weeks and General Leonard Wood sought to turn over the profitable railroad owned by the people of the Philippine Islands.

Huddleston said that the White bid was doubtless part of a scheme conceived by the reactionary financial interests of the nation to stop Henry Ford's chances of getting Muscle Shoals to produce cheap nitrates for the farmers and low cost electricity for the whole tier of Southern States.

He wants to confirm his belief that Weeks induced the White people to make the eleven-hour attempt to gain control of the Shoals property.

Weeks, he said, has been actively engaged against the Ford bid for at least a year.

He is said by Huddleston to be typical of the giant financial interests that count millions like pennies and exert a tremendous influence through both the Republican and Democratic parties to gain control.

HANDCUFFED BRIDE NOW ON HONEYMOON

CHARGE ASSETS HIDDEN

Assets of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., totalling $300,000, were sought today at a hearing before Judge Morton in United States District Court.

These assets are alleged, in a petition brought by the receivers, to have been fraudulently concealed. The petition asks that George F. Redmond, treasurer; James S. Leach, president; and Arthur A. Dugan, third member of the firm, be compelled to turn them over to the receivers.

Lamont, who has been in East Cambridge Jail for a number of days for alleged contempt of court, was ordered brought to the Federal building for today's hearing. It is understood he will testify.

Testimony was given by Auditor Bourne for the receivers, that Michael M. Dugan, photographer for Redmond, drew out of the Tremont Trust Company in less than fourteen months a total of $257,319.56 in cash, checks and indentures. She is now Redmond's wife.

The withdrawals were made, witnesses testified, from New Year's, 1920, to the middle of February, 1921, when the Tremont Trust Co. was closed.

The account was in the name of M. M. Dugan and a substantial balance remained when the bank suspended business.

Bourne said he has been unable to find any record of the withdrawals, from month to month, in the Redmond books, nor has he been able to discover any record of large cash withdrawals.

BRIVES GAME CALLED OFF

Rather than have their players contract rheumatic arms or drawn tendons, Managers Dave Batdorf of the Braves and Wilbur Johnson of the Dodgers decided to call off to day's game at the Wigan.

The Braves have just about found their stride and running stride with such a ball club is dangerous business. The players of both clubs can stand the payoff, especially the Braves, who were more than put to the test in the Giant series last week.

This sort of weather is hard on pitchers, especially the type of Jon Greenlich, who was slated for today's pastime. Jon is at his best when the thermometer reads high, which brand of weather both players and fans alike are rooting for.

CUBAN TROOPS QUIT; "DOWN WITH ZAYAS"

Havana, Cuba, April 29.—Disaffection long smoldering in Santa Clara province came to a head today when a detachment of the rural guard revolted and fled from their post near Las Villas.

Dispatches published by Heroldo de Cuba said the men marched out shouting, "Down with Zayas! Revolution!"

The dispatches were confirmed by the Secretary of the Interior. It is feared similar movements may break out in other parts of this province.

DUST TEACHER AS BRUTAL IN SOMERVILLE

The Somerville School Board, by a vote of nine to five, refused to re-select Guy P. Carver, substitute and teacher of woodworking at the Northeastern Junior High School, because he is alleged to have attacked one of his pupils and blackened his eye.

Carver came to Somerville from his home in Camden, Me., last October, when he obtained the position at the junior high school.

During the discussion on the election of Carver, it was brought out by Committee member Walter P. Turner that Carver was reported to have blackened the eye of a boy pupil.

Committee member Daniel H. Bradley declared before the Committee that it was the "second beating case" that had been brought to his attention in the schools in a short time, and it was time to put a stop to it.

Among other things, Carver was accused of being unfitted for the work of a teacher, having shown a lack of respect for a member of the School Committee, when the latter visited the school; and of working as a salesman during his spare time.

Mrs. Katherine E. Cowens, a woman member of the committee, raised the point that Carver had not been fitted by his education for the position he holds.

An effort was made at the same meeting of the board to prevent the School Committee from re-selecting him as a teacher at the Clark Bennett School.

After considerable debate, the board voted to re-select Carver by eleven to three.

Committee members opposed to his re-selection argued that he was born in Lunenburg, N. S., and was not a citizen of this country, was pointed out, however, that the young woman took out her first citizenship papers last May 4, 1923.

He pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

SOUTH BOSTON GIRL ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Miss Margaret Roddy, twenty-eight years old, of No. 131 Mercer street, South Boston, attempted suicide by drinking poison at her home.

She was removed to the City Hospital.

The girl's sister, Annie, was alerted to the stricken of the house by her screams. She found Margaret writhing in pain on the floor. Annie then ran to the street and summoned a patrolman.

The police removed the poisoned girl to the City Hospital, where physicians rendered first aid and reported that she had a good chance to recover. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roddy.

The reason for the girl's act is a mystery.

CHARGES WEEKS PLOTS TO SELL MUSCLE SHOALS TO BRITISH

of the nation's resources for enormous private gain.

BRITISH INTERESTED.
British capital is paired with both American finance and politics, he said, in a scheme to exploit the vast resources of Muscle Shoals, in which the American people have already invested $100,000,000.

It looks like the key to the electrical power of the South, strikes for the impoverished farmers, and to the battle and valuable aluminum supply of the continent.

Muscle Shoals is one of the great sides left for private capital to exploit. Ford would make an initial expenditure there of $10,000,000.

Within forty years, more than $500,000,000 would be expended for development, Huddleston says. Cheap nitrates, while a blessing to the farmers, might prove disastrous to the alleged fertilizer trust which now dominates the American supply and charges the consumer all it can get.

The private corporations want to gain control of Muscle Shoals not only to protect the vast resources they have built up there at the expense of the people, said Huddleston, but to increase the profits which will come to them from complete control of electricity, aluminum, bauxite and fertilizers.

"The people of the South have not the slightest doubt that Secretary Weeks will turn over the great Muscle Shoals property to the interests again so soon as he dares to 'get away with it'."

The construction contracts were let out on a condition basis to the J. G. White Company, of the Wall Street crowd, and the Air Nitrate Corporation.

Although Air Nitrate was incorporated for only $1,000, it received government contracts, together with the White Company, in excess of $80,000,000.

It was organized by the American Cyanamid Company, which is located at Niagara Falls, which Mr. Huddleston says controls the dynamite used in this country and which, he says, is financed by British capital.

The directors of the Nitrate Corporation and the American Cyanamid Company are identical, he said. The Alabama Power Company built the Georgia alum plant at Muscle Shoals. It was said to be absolutely essential to the complete development of the big property.

A contract was drawn in the War Department which contained a clause granting to the Alabama Power Company the right to buy the Georgia plant at any time in the future for the same price that the government contemplated selling the plant to any other bidder.

It has been said that the contract was signed for the government by an army officer who, up to the time of the war, was a private citizen in the employ of the Alabama Power Company.

Huddleston declares that the private company to which Weeks sold the property is controlled by Englishmen.

Pinchot Says Ford Bid Would "Hamstring" South

Washington, April 28.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania told the Senate Antitrust Committee today that Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals, if accepted, would "hamstring" the South.

Declaring the Muscle Shoals was the key to the power situation in the Southeast and the second greatest power project in the United States, the governor said the Ford bid did not guarantee anything except to build up a great industrial center in the South.

"I see no reason in the world why a contract of this kind should be accepted as the Ford bid. There is no penalty for forfeiture and no guarantee of any sort."

Coolidge Reiterates Denial of Shoals Story

Washington, April 28.—Reiterating

his recommendation to Congress, President Coolidge has today denied the assertion that he was "trying" to "deliver Muscle Shoals" to Henry Ford, contained in a telegram placed in the record of the Senate Agriculture Committee's hearing on the Ford and other bids for the property.

Quoting the part of his message emphasizing the desirability of fertilizing production at Muscle Shoals, Mr. Coolidge asserted he had "no other method of dealing" with the problem.

He expressed belief that United States bankers probably would take up half of the proposed $200,000,000 loan on condition the buyers repay the plan in accepted in its entirety and is put into execution at once.

Morgan Demands Priority for Loan

London, April 28.—J. P. Morgan, who conferred today with treasury and bank of England officials, was understood to have demanded that the proposed loan to Germany have priority over all Germany's treaty obligations.

He expressed belief that United States bankers probably would take up half of the proposed $200,000,000 loan on condition the buyers repay the plan in accepted in its entirety and is put into execution at once.

DANIELS CALLED AS WITNESS BY OIL JURY

Washington, April 28.—Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration, was called as the first witness today before the District of Columbia grand jury considering criminal charges growing out of the Seneca Oil Committee investigation.

It was at Daniels' request that Congress ordered the law of June 4, 1923, which the government contends placed the oil reserves within the sole jurisdiction of the Navy Secretary, and which, it is argued, had invalidated the executive order under which that control passed to the Interior Department in May, 1921.

The 1923 act has been a subject of much controversy since the oil scandal developed, friends of former Secretary Fall contending that under the provisions the executive department could lease all of the naval oil lands.

This view has been disputed partly by Senator Walsh of Montana, proponent of the oil committee, who has contended that the clear intent of Congress was simply the drilling of oil wells to preserve the oil and supply in the ground as far as possible.

Dr. C. Finley, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and Dr. H. Foster Bain, director of the Bureau of Mines, who have appeared several times before the oil committee, reached the court house a few minutes after Mr. Daniels arrived and waited in an anteroom. They were to have appeared before the Senate Oil Committee today, but were excused tomorrow in order that they like an inverted "V" in the sand, might go before the grand jury.

MILLER STANDS BY HIS FORD TELEGRAM

New York, April 28.—James Miller, to Miller, whose telegram to the Dearborn Independent, quoting President Coolidge as saying he would try to deliver Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, has been republished by the President, states that his own news was correct.

Mr. Miller, who said he was employed by the Ford interests solely to observe the progress of Ford's presidential boom, insisted that he had transmitted Mr. Coolidge's words accurately.

Mr. Miller denied statements made by Ford representatives to Detroit that he was not on the Ford payroll. He declared he had been engaged in December, 1922, by Ernest G. Liebold, general manager of the Dearborn Independent and a general secretary to Ford, as a "servant" of things political relating to the manufacture's presidential boom.

He said he resigned last January and had since instituted suit against the Independent for back salary and expenses.

He asserted he had scores of references and confidential letters written by him to Ford and Liebold, and correspondence from Liebold in which he was instructed concerning his work for Ford.

Mr. Miller said he had accepted the theory that the slayer choked the girl to death in an attempt to hide her screams when he attacked her.

WANTED TO BUY BUILDING.
Under cross-examination by Attorney Vane, counsel for Edmund and Lamont, Bourne admitted that he did not know what became of the money, and that it might have been deposited in other banks, and from them distributed to customers of the company. He also admitted that it may have been deposited under the name of M. M. Higgins to prevent attachment in event of suit against the company.

Bourne, H. E. Swift, former treasurer of the Tremont Trust Company, witness for the receivers, testified that the checks were signed by M. M. Higgins, and that most of them were paid out in cash to James R. Lamont.

At one time, after the closing of the Harmon Trust Company, Swift asked Lamont not to withdraw a certain large amount of money, but Lamont told him that the Tremont Company wanted the money to buy a building on Congress street.

WHERE CHILD'S BODY WAS FOUND

Chief of Police Axon of Lincoln (third from left, with stick in hand) and members of his force in the shallow grave in which slayer buried Carmelina Cosmo on Cobble Hill in that town. The stick that Chief Axon holds is inscribed, was the implement used by the slayer to dig the grave. The Lincoln police theory is that the little body was hidden there some time ago and taken to Cobble Hill in the dead of night to be buried by the find who killed the child.

CHILD BURIED THREE DAYS AFTER BEING SLAIN

by twelve-year-old Edward Faria, a playmate of the victim.

Young Edward told the police he saw the girl ride by the schoolhouse Tuesday after he had entered the automobile and that he paid particular attention to the small child when the car was a Cleveland.

Miss Isabelle McConnell, telephone operator at East Providence, who saw the girl climb into the car, said it was a Cleveland.

"For three days the man who murdered the girl kept the body hidden before he ventured to bury it."

This conclusion was reached by the police after an exhaustive investigation at the scene of the injured grave.

The police have also accepted the theory that the slayer choked the girl to death in an attempt to hide her screams when he attacked her.

HANDKERCHIEF CLEW.
A cheap handkerchief was found knotted tightly about the child's neck when her body was uncovered. Part of the handkerchief was around her chin.

Police have thus far failed to learn where the attack and murder occurred. They have arrived at the conclusion that the child was murdered last Tuesday—the day she was kidnapped from in front of her home.

The police believe that the murderer, after committing the crime, hid the body until Friday. They thought he drove in the dead of night to the lonely and deserted spot on Cobble Hill and buried the body at the end of a little trail.

CHIEF AXON'S THEORY.
That is the belief of Chief of Police James Axon of Lincoln, in which town Cobble Hill is situated.

Chief Axon bases his theory that the murderer concealed the child's body for three days on the fact that the grave was newly dug. The day before the body was discovered it rained in Rhode Island. Chief Axon said the rain, he believes, would have pounded down the earth, thereby it was soft and loose on the grave.

Mrs. Edward Cooper, who lives a short distance from the spot where the child was buried, told the police that Thursday or Friday afternoon a young man appeared at her house and borrowed a shovel to dig his car out of the sand. She said he did not return it for several hours.

NO SHOVEL USED.
Chief Axon declared that the grave was not dug with a shovel. He carefully examined the grave before disturbing it. He declared that the earth had not been cut about the spot by any shovel, but rather a tiny mound of sand had been scraped apart by a long stick of scrub oak and the body dropped in the excavation, and then covered. The stick covered with the soft reddish sand was still lying by the side of the grave when he reached it.

One clue that the police hope will eventually lead them to the discovery of the murderer is the front right tire of his car. That tire was squarely here. The other three were worn.

The new tire left its imprint in the soft sand. It showed a design like an inverted "V" in the sand, might go before the grand jury.

MARVEL OF SURGERY MAKES 'HOPELESS' CRIPPLE ABLE TO WALK

'TELESCOPING' BONES GIVES BACK USE OF LIMBS

By GRACE DISCHAMPS

Matthew Myers is going to walk. He is going to walk out of Long Island Hospital some fine day and ask for a job. He will have two good arms and two good legs.

The promise that hung on a doctor's lips and brain has slowly become a fact. Weeks of waiting, while the city's most skillful physicians looked on, has witnessed a bone "dead" for seven years, take on new life again and produce more bone to bridge a gap.

Two years ago they brought Myers down to Long Island Hospital to spend the rest of his years in bed at the city's expense. He was a hopeless cripple.

His orthopedic surgeons, operated on him successfully, and only a shattered arm and leg was the result. He was "done" by the city.

Matthew Myers took him down with other broken men and women to drink and watch the harbor boats chug back and forth.

The cast was removed entirely from Myers' arm a few days ago. For the first time in seven years he did himself and watched the muscles fight in his arm as he worked it up and down. The shattered bone—once of which was "teleported" into the other through an operation performed by Dr. George K. Carpenter—had knitted together and the bony experiment had established mechanical fixation, enabling the forearm to move up and down in natural fashion.

In a few days more the cast will be removed from Myers' leg. The bone has already calloused and knitted with the piece of graft that wedged the two broken ends together. Slowly, a new bone has grown out of the whole and the leg that hung dead for seven years has become straight and strong.

Myers, only slightly over forty years old, will go back to an indefinite period of usefulness, unaided by crutch or brace.

Seven years ago, Myers met with an accident that fractured in several places his right arm and leg.

Lowered physical health had brought about a deplorable condition of the bone and the broken members refused to knit together. Four operations at the City Hospital found the arm and leg in the same condition and in November, 1922, Myers was taken down the harbor, listed as an "incurable."

BONES TELESCOPED.

The operation performed by Dr. Carpenter consisted of boring a hole in the ulna, or bone of the forearm, and inserting—or telescoping into it—the V-shaped end of the humerus, or upper arm bone, providing up and down motion as well as considerable rotating movement.

In the case of the leg, a piece of shin bone taken from the unimpaired leg, was placed into a section embracing the two broken ends of bone—the latter piece being cut and packed in around the graft. The ends of the old broken bone were then "freed"—the scar tissue cut away—and new growth began gradually to take place.

Dr. Carpenter was appointed resident physician of Long Island Hospital in May, 1923, bringing with him an unusual training in orthopedic surgery. While developing the orthopedic department of the hospital he came in contact with many cases sent to the hospital as incurable after discharge from various local institutions.

treatment at the Children's Hospital, bowed legs, paralysis resulting from sleeping sickness and infantile disease, and twisted bones resulting from various types of arthritis and rheumatism—all have come under Dr. Carpenter's personal attention and striking results have brought down the names of his most skillful physicians, with classes of students, to watch the work of the staff.

PRINCE IS SISTER OF 'WITHOUT FEAR IS COUNTRY' ARRESTED

Released from Jail to Be Deported, He Says No Nation Claims Him

Looking at it from all angles, it would appear that "Prince Mike" is all dressed up with no place to go.

"Prince Mike," of course, is Michael Smith, former Harvard student and a bold-faced thief and a bold-faced liar, who had claims to royalty while staying over the river, and who was lately seen talking at size value by Boston society.

The shock came when "Prince Mike" was seen at the immigration station at Ellis Island, with deportation as the next move. This he was told in Canada for a master involving a check or two.

For a number of weeks, the "prince" has been in East Cambridge jail, with Chandler "Chap" Choate, who is alleged to have been passed, in Europe. He and Choate were together in the prospect of his return.

Charles Arthur Arthur K. Reading of Milton, Mass., took pity on "Prince Mike" today, not proved to the immigration authorities for deportation.

But then the rub came. Where would they deport him to? The "prince" says no country claims him and he will not go to any country. It appears that his address will be the immigration station here indefinitely.

STEFANSSON WILL EXPLORE TROPICS

New York, April 20.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, who has spent twelve years in the Polar regions, will leave tonight for Los Angeles on his way to Australia and Africa, where he will explore vast uncharted territories.

Stefansson said his trip was the next step in his "life" and of the various parts of the world which are supposed to be barren and unproductive because of too little food, fever, or too dry.

FLAPPER FAR AHEAD OF VICTORIAN SISTER

Chicago, April 20.—The modern flapper is so far ahead of her Victorian sister that comparisons are out of place, declared Mrs. Frederick E. Eley of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the National Council of Girl Scouts in session here.

She described the 1924 girl as a "reliable person because the trend of the times has made her so. She is full of energy, and she flaps it in for the same reason that the title bird flaps its wings when it first leaves the security of the nest."

AMERICAN FORCES TO QUIT HONDURAS

Washington, April 20.—The Honduran revolutionaries have completed their occupation of Tegucigalpa, the capital, and have Admiral Dyer, in command of the American naval squadron in southern waters, has recommended withdrawal of the American landing party sent to that city some weeks ago.

Minister Morales reported today there was little disorder and said he was confident that order could be maintained. All foreigners in the city are safe and the de facto forces has fled.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY APPEALS SENTENCE

Douglas, April 20.—Fifteen-year-old English High School student, of No. 41 Bank street, Boston, was sentenced to the Industrial School today in East Cambridge Court, where he was charged with stealing an overcoat from Russell Sompter, Cambridge High and Latin School student. The sentence was appealed.

Harley, a few days ago, also appealed a sentence to the inferior school passed on him in Boston Municipal Court for alleged theft of an overcoat from a Boston student.

MRS. HAYES' FATE AGAIN POSTPONED

New York, April 20.—Postponement of sentence on Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, who pleaded guilty two weeks ago to a conspiracy for signing the name of Charles M. Schwab to a $25,000 note, was deferred today until May 12. The Court expressed a desire to investigate affidavits stating that Mrs. Hayes was suffering from an incurable disease. She was released on $10,000 bail.

Rhode Island Judge Gets Klan Death Threat in Mail

Woonsocket, R. I., April 20.—Judge William Myette of the Woonsocket District Court today received a threatening letter signed "K. K. K."

The letter containing the death threat said, in part: "If you do not stop putting yourself up as a dictator, you will have your head blown off. When you first took the bench it was thought that the city was going to be cleaned up. Now it is worse than ever."

The judge refused police protection.

Two More Girls in Sailor Garb on U. S. S. Arizona

New York, April 20.—The first bonnet-haired "sailor" of Uncle Sam's navy arrived on the Carolina from Panama in the person of Miss Madeline Blair, nineteen, and pretty, who spent five weeks disguised as a janitor on the battleship Arizona.

36 BODIES ARE FOUND IN MINE

Rescue Parties Continue the Search for 75 Other Victims Entombed by Explosion

Wheeling, W. Va., April 20.—The burned and crushed bodies of thirty-six victims of the explosion and fire in the Denwood Mill mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation have been found by rescue workers, and search for seventy-five other entombed miners was being continued today under direction of experts of the United States Bureau of Mines.

The rescuers have little hope of finding any of the men alive.

As the bodies were located they were placed in one side in the mine and the rescuers continued their battle against falling rock and earth and poison gas. None of the bodies will be brought to the surface until every tunnel and chamber has been explored.

Of the thirty bodies found thus far only three have been identified.

The reason crews include many volunteers from nearby mining villages.

CLIENTS GO TO GRAND JURY FOR RELIEF

Charles named James H. Fitzpatrick former head of the Boston Lodge, and for her husband are to be presented to the Suffolk County grand jury by clients of the bankruptcy firm.

Fitzpatrick, whose offices at No. 10 State street did a flourishing business for several years, pleaded guilty in Superior Court, before Judge Bulfinch, to indictment charging him with keeping a bookshop and larceny from customers.

An offer of restitution was made by Fitzpatrick and accepted by the complainant with the result that the case was continued to October 15 for that purpose. This has aroused the ire of many customers.

Among the clients seeking redress is John D. Duggan of No. 71 Marlborough street, Dorchester. Duggan, who is proprietor of a soft drink establishment at No. 71 Harrison avenue, is alleged to have lost $5,000.

The failure of the Fitzpatrick firm in September, 1917, was one of the most disastrous in the history of Boston. It is alleged that $1,000,000 was lost by customers.

"Fitz" as he was known to his friends in Boston, was a man of sporting circles, and an amateur career. He is the son of the late Frank X. Fitzpatrick, one-time head of the Louisiana Lottery.

Shortly before Fitzpatrick failed he inherited $250,000 from his father's estate. Another $250,000 was bequeathed to his sister, Ann, on the condition that she never marry Crawford Duggan, who was a distant relative.

The will stipulated that if the marriage did take place the entire $500,000 was to go to James Fitzpatrick. Ann married Crawford Duggan and her husband gave her half the estate away. Most of that estate is alleged to still be intact in Boston bank.

Claimants against Fitzpatrick all agree he is still wealthy, although he claims to be "broke." He is alleged to still own two yachts, two horses, an automobile and to maintain an expensively furnished apartment. The rug in the living room of this apartment is said to have cost $5,000.

HOME BEAUTIFUL AND BUILDING TRADES EXPOSITION

APRIL 26 TO MAY 3, 1924

RECORD-BREAKING THROGS VIEW 1924 EXHIBITS

Five halls, brim full of interesting exhibits, are attracting record breaking crowds to the fourth annual Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition in Mechanics Building. Never before has there been a more interesting gathering of home owners than have been seen at the show since the opening.

Everything that will make the home more attractive and efficient is on display. For several months Chester I. Campbell, general manager of the exposition, has been working to make the show a real stimulus to the movement for better homes.

All of the newest things in furniture, home decoration and household appliances are on display. The most modern methods of making the home more beautiful are explained by experts in interior decoration who are in attendance at the various exhibits ready to volunteer their services without charge to the exhibition visitors.

MODERN METHODS.
The most modern methods of home building are explained and demonstrated to prospective home-owners by experts in interior decoration who are in attendance at the various exhibits ready to volunteer their services without charge to the exhibition visitors.

FASHION SHOW THURSDAY.
A fashion show to be held under the direction of Mrs. Bronslay Shepley, the well known fashion authority, will be held on Thursday afternoon and evening as a special feature. More than a score of pretty models will show the correct costumes for each season. The very latest styles for afternoon, evening, street and parties will be worn on the runway.

MANY PRESENTS.
In addition to receiving a present of $50 in cash from Manager Campbell, the young couple will receive as gifts from the exhibitors, home furnishings worth several hundred dollars. They will enjoy a two weeks' motor trip through the New England mountains and Shaker Falls as their honeymoon.

As special guests at the wedding there will be present the three young couples who were married at previous Home Beautiful Expositions, and are now living happily in Greater Boston. These young people are very grateful for the splendid start on married life they received as the result of gifts from Manager Campbell and the exhibitors.

Because one of the qualifications for using the Home Beautiful plan is that the young woman must be an expert cook, Miss Stevens has made her own wedding cake to prove her ability as a culinary artist. It will be served at a reception to be held at the Hotel Lenox immediately after the ceremony.

SCHOOL FOR BACHELORS.
A feature that is attracting a great deal of attention at the exposition is a bachelor's cooking school where unmarried men can learn the secrets of the culinary art. The first session is to be held tonight directly after the wedding.

It is well known authorities on domestic science have been engaged by Manager Campbell to give lectures and demonstrations to all bachelors who are interested in becoming expert cooks. There will be sessions every evening until the show closes so that there will be an opportunity of getting in some real good work. Each night will be devoted to a different subject. Tonight the instructors will show the bachelors how to prepare a very tasty breakfast. They will start in by showing them how to make coffee and then take them, step by step, right through the meal. Wednesday night will be given over to talks on how to prepare inviting luncheon. Thursday to discussion of dinner and Friday evening will be devoted to showing the men how to prepare worthwhile supper. Saturday night they will be taught how to make an inviting dinner.

Visitors to the Home Beautiful show will be interested in the announcement of Ferdinand's, the pioneer furniture house at the Dudley Street Terminal, No. 2300 Washington Street, that on one of the floors of their attractive building they have erected a completely furnished seven-room model home.

Mr. Victor H. Haskins, manager of Ferdinand's, has given this model personal attention. In order to simulate the setting of "Better Homes Week," decreed recently by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, to be held May 5 to May 11. During that week demonstrations of modern homemaking methods will be given. Mr. Haskins has been aided in this work by Mrs. Charles Herbert Jennings, head of the local Better Homes committee.

In order to make this model actually a standard for comparison and improvement of New England dwellings, a beautifully furnished front lawn and rear garden have been added. Beautiful attractive window boxes there is a sumptuous luncheon to enhance the scenery.

Which the model every modern housewife has been installed. From the grand piano to the latest in drawing room to the exquisite porcelain kitchen fixtures, the little house serves to satisfy and delight the heart of every housewife. 120 BRICKS PER MINUTE MADE IN HAVERHILL

The Day State Brick & Stone Co. of Haverhill, Mass., is a contractor by new industry in the manufacture of concrete brick, with a thoroughly up-to-date plant, equipped with modern machinery, and turning out 120 bricks per minute. The superintendent of the plant being turned out is one that has never been equaled in the brick industry.

The plant is efficiently equipped with saw cutting devices which cut the concrete into uniform sizes. The general layout of the entire plant is one which enables the company to handle the largest amount of brick at a minimum cost, due to the fact that everything is done automatically.

The location of the plant at Haverhill was determined upon after a long search. The sand bank to supply the raw material for this plant is virtually inexhaustible. The plant itself contains a Deane Press, which turns out 120,000 bricks a month.

The method of handling the load of these bricks is one that is a unique feature in itself. The general layout for this purpose is one, which enables the company to load some 200,000 bricks a day.

GLENWOOD HAS NEW INSULATED RANGE OVEN

Makes Cooking Easy and Prevents Kitchen From Being Overheated

"Where are the ranges that don't overheat?" If you asked the question of any woman at the Home Beautiful Exposition the answer would be, "Oh, you mean the Glenwood."

And she would be able to tell you where to find them, too, for it's impossible to miss the big Glenwood display as one crosses the threshold of the main entrance.

Magazine and newspaper advertisements have spread the fame of Glenwood ranges but the daily dependability of their cooking is what makes them known wherever there are good cooks and particular housewives.

TWO SPECIAL FEATURES.
The credits at the Glenwood exhibit are greatly increased in two special features of the display. One is the Glenwood Insulated Oven now being shown for the first time. More than a year of practical cooking tests and laboratory experiments have perfected this new heat-saving principle to make cooking easy.

Especially interesting to the householder is the modern method of oven heat control which is another feature of Glenwood range construction. A giant Glenwood thermometer control is being displayed at the Glenwood booth. This big model is perfect in every detail and will especially command the attention of the exhibitors.

It demonstrates in a very practical way how simple and easy it is to keep the oven at the right temperature for the perfect cooking of every kind of food, but will hold the oven at just that temperature for hours at a time, if necessary.

There are different types and models for coal, wood gas and oil. Many of them are made with the beautiful porcelain enamel finish that not only is so much in vogue in the kitchen and living room, but is so modern American in tone.

The West Haven Company's plant at Tinton where Glenwood ranges are made is one of the largest, if not the largest stove factory in the world. Visitors are always welcome.

The skillful work of the crafts men who make Glenwood Ranges to make cooking easy is a revelation of painstaking care in anyone whether he is professionally interested as a merchant or practically interested as a purchaser of ranges.

NEW ENGLAND WANTS FINEST GRADE COFFEE

Boston Wholesale Grocer Says His Clientele Knows All About Trade

Without doubt there is considerable romance in the coffee trade, that is, in the opinion of Charles Chase of Cobb, Aldrich & Company it is to be taken for anything.

"It is surprising," said Mr. Chase, "how forty-four years with one firm will teach a man something about the business of the coffee. When the organization first started in business the original store was located on Cambridge street. In those days, Cambridge street was one of the main stems of traffic and hundreds of people would stop in on their way home to buy their week's supply of coffee."

"Coffee, as you probably know, is a very sensitive commodity, being easily affected by climatic conditions, even though the blending be of the finest. For that reason many people seem to find fault with (perhaps) a variance in the taste of their favorite brand."

STEADY CUSTOMERS.

"However, as I recall it, Cobb, Aldrich's coffee was one of the best of the finest. For that reason many people seem to find fault with (perhaps) a variance in the taste of their favorite brand."

"After several years of ever increasing business on Cambridge street, Cobb, Aldrich moved to Washington street, on the site of what is now the Washington Theatre. Here the present type of grocery store was inaugurated. Different types of goods were systematized and each occupied its own section of the store. Customers were made more attractive by tempting displays of goods and the old fashioned idea of a grocery store being a general hodge-podge of everything gave way to neatness and compactness."

FAR EAST PRODUCT.

"During recent years we have specialized in selling Far East coffee, since repeated tests on our part have shown it to be about the best all around coffee anyone can buy. You see, in the first place, it has a genuine Arabian Mocha blended with the highest quality Java coffee, and that's an unbeatable combination."

"One of the important things about Far East coffee is that it comes in vacuum sealed tins, and this absolutely prevents any danger of weather affecting its rich blend and flavor."

"Then, again, it has been tested by the two leading women's magazines, Modern Housewife and Good Housekeeping. Both of these publications gave it the highest approval, and that's the kind of recommendation that wins the consumer in any home—the woman's."

SPRINGS IN NEW ROME BEDS 'NOISELESS'

Remarkable Improvement in Construction Noted at Mechanics Hall Show

Comfortable and sanitary bedding is a matter that cannot be too strongly emphasized and authorities who have given the problem much thought and careful study are agreed that it is a question that deeply concerns everybody. Sound sleep is vitally necessary to refresh and restore the human body an immense amount of energy that is consumed during the normal activities of the day.

Regardless of the construction and beauty of the foot board and head board every bed must absolutely depend on its spring and mattress for most of the comfort it is to render the user.

NEW FABRIC MESH.

Of these two factors the spring is of outstanding importance, for regardless of the merits of any mattress it cannot render complete satisfaction unless it is aided by a spring that is resilient, non-sagging and durable.

The necessity of producing such a bed-making has been met most effectively by the washable fabric mesh used in Matrimex Rome Beds. Constructed without springs, it is a square of rattling mesh, the strain is from corner to corner diagonally—rather than horizontally and perpendicularly, as is the case in other types.

WEIGHT DISTRIBUTED.

This the weight is distributed over a larger area and eliminates sagging of the fabric.

Non-sag because of elimination of plates, springs and run-proof because of the Home quality and very enamel finish and comfortable because of the complete elimination of sagging. It is the most improved fine fabric obtainable.

A complete set of these superior springs and metal rods made by the Home Metal Bedding Company can be seen at the Home Beautiful Exposition.

LORD'S STOVE POLISH NEEDS LITTLE LABOR

A well-polished stove is a better stove, not only because it is easier to keep at but also because it actually radiates more heat than a rusty, untidy stove.

With Lord's No. 1 Stove Polish the task of keeping your kitchen stove neat is greatly simplified. It is easily applied and does not require any of the ordinary polishing demands.

And unlike those polishing, it is absolutely safe to use, since it is as non-inflammable as water.

Over a quarter of a century of sound business judgment and chemical research has gone into the perfection of this stove polish. The chemical who invented it also created Lord's Lustrous Metal Polish, a non-abrasive solution greatly valued by the very housekeeper.

Lord's No. 1 Stove Polish is conveniently put up in pint and quart sizes that may be purchased at any reliable dealer. It is a true New England product, being manufactured in Cambridge.

Glenwood Ranges Make Cooking Easy

THIS announcement of the Glenwood Insulated Oven is our final fulfillment of a promise. After months of painstaking experiments and tests we have perfected a system of heat insulation which not only increases the efficiency of the Glenwood Oven but really does save gas.

Heavy walls of mineral wool surround the oven of this new Glenwood range and hold the heat inside, eliminating the waste radiation that now only goes to heat your kitchen.

If you do not find the Insulated Glenwood at your local gas company or range dealer's we shall be glad to send you a fully descriptive booklet and also tell you where and when you can see this 1924 Glenwood Gas Range. Ask for Booklet D. WEIR STOVE CO., Taunton, Mass.

CRAFTEX MAKES A BEAUTIFUL WALL FINISH

Rich Warmth of Mellowness Imparted by Boston Product

After fifteen years of persistent experimentation a well known firm of Boston interior decorators conceived and made practical a product that will lend the rich warmth of mellowness to homes intended to be the last word in quiet luxury.

This product is a wall finish called Craftex. It is applied with a brush and results in a simple but very pleasing grain.

Any color scheme may be carried out by the mixing of a tint with Craftex.

A few of the effects possible with Craftex are: Italian Plaster, French Caen Stone, Early Colonial Plaster, Roman Travertine, English Plaster, Gothic Plaster and unlimited original textures and colors.

A very pleasing idea of the possibilities of Craftex can be seen in the display of Allen Hall Company, the originators, at space Nos. 3-20, Mechanics Building, during the week of the Home Beautiful Exposition or their shop, No. 384 Boylston street, Boston.

DODGE CAR IN NEW DELIVERY RECORD

High Marks Are Achieved by Dealers for Three Successive Weeks

For the third successive week Dodge Brothers dealers have broken all previous retail delivery records. During the week ending April 2 5,894 cars were delivered to purchasers. This was more than in any other week in Dodge Brothers' history. The record, however, was of brief duration, as the very next week saw the delivery of 6,198 cars at retail.

And now it is disclosed by official figures from the factory that the week ending April 19 sets still another and much greater record, with 6,571 deliveries to customers.

In neither case do these figures include cars delivered to purchasers in foreign countries.

The consistency with which Dodge Brothers' business continues to mount, is cited by factory officials as an indication of the public's widespread and unshakable confidence in the unusual value in the new line of Dodge Brothers motor cars.

CHICKIE

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

HE took her face in his hands, smoothed back her hair, staring into her eyes. He said: "You're beautiful, I love you. More than ever, Chickie—do you want me to kiss you?"

But my young agent, who had been asked to attend to this love of a young man, was not so sure. She had been told that the girl was a beauty, but she had seen her. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house.

She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house.

She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house. She had seen her in the street, and she had seen her in the house.

Shut Off the Gas Shut Off

It Has a Bad Odor

Every little while some city passes a law requiring property owners to install automatic devices to shut off gas in houses and apartment buildings in case of fire.

Sometimes the State Legislatures are worked to pass the law.

But almost as often the voters and property owners, when apprised of the fact that a new tax has been put upon their properties, rise up and defeat the measures.

Almost as often the officials who have to do with these repugnant and suspicious measures become unpopular.

It was tried on Chicago, and the people almost drove the legislators out of public life. It was tried on New York, and the plain people frightened the advocates out.

Now the agitation has come to Boston.

Seldom is there a gas explosion in connection with a fire. The people are being taxed enough. Indications are that this new measure may be forced upon them. Gas shut-off advocates should beware. They may be starting something that no automatic device can shut off for them.

Clean Up More

Paint Up Less, Maine's Motto for Soda and Restaurant Helpers

Maine has passed a law that should be good for Massachusetts.

It requires that all persons engaged in the preparation and dispensing of food in public eating places shall be licensed, that they shall undergo an annual physical examination and that they shall be found free from communicable diseases.

Several years ago an epidemic of typhoid caused hundreds of deaths in Chicago, and it was traced to "Typhoid Mary," a peculiar carrier and spreader of bacteria, who was engaged in the handling of milk.

We have laws which sterilize food products but none that sterilize the handlers of food products.

Incidentally we have a law that forbids the selling of skim milk yet it is being dispensed by many soda fountains.

Why Kid the Straphanger?

The Boston Elevated has put on some new cars. It is easy to distinguish the new cars. The signs telling the destinations of the elevated trains are so small that they are not readable.

Elderly persons, strangers, and those with poor eyesight can easily be confused by the inadequate signs on the new cars.

The big, simple signs of the old cars, both elevated and surface, were sources for small pride in Boston for years. They received favorable comment from visitors.

We might not have signs on many of our small, crooked streets, but we did have good signs on our street cars.

The scramble at Park street subway and Andrew square is humiliating enough to the poor straphanger without this new confusion.

Will Radio Hurt Papers?

Yes, Feeble Ones

Editors from all over gather in New York and among other things discuss radio and its effect on the newspaper industry. They might devote their massive brains to something more useful. Radio will develop beyond the wild dreams of this generation. This writer has received from Harry Reichelback of the Famous Players, an excellent idea. No receiving set contained in a matchbox. Using that set as a receiver President Coolidge's speech was heard distinctly. Soon each man's hat will carry an apparatus enabling him to talk to his wife at home—an excellent thing if it helps his wife to keep track of him.

Radio will kill some little newspapers probably, but so much the better. They need killing. Newspapers without radio will grow with every new thing that is worth while.

Various Things

And They Are Short

Nine times a Chicago officer heard the court grant a delay to the man charged with the murder of his son. When the court granted the defendant the tenth delay, the father whipped out a gun and killed the killer of his boy.

It is wrong to take the law into your own hands, but it is rotten to delay criminal trials until people are tempted to do so.

McAdoo promised the people of California that if elected President he would drive all grafters from the National Capitol. It is grand at a time like this to be able to contemplate a real crusader.

Jan Smuts, Premier of South Africa, has lost out and resigned. The British Empire didn't have anybody any taller in wisdom than Smuts, but he is wise enough to know that political tides rise and fall. He will now touch elbows awhile with Lloyd George, then both of them will probably return to power.

Russia is said to be thrilled by the proposition of flying to the North Pole, nailing the red flag thereto and sounding the call for revolution. This report is probably circulated by some enemy of Secretary Hughes who wishes to start him to looking under the bed again.

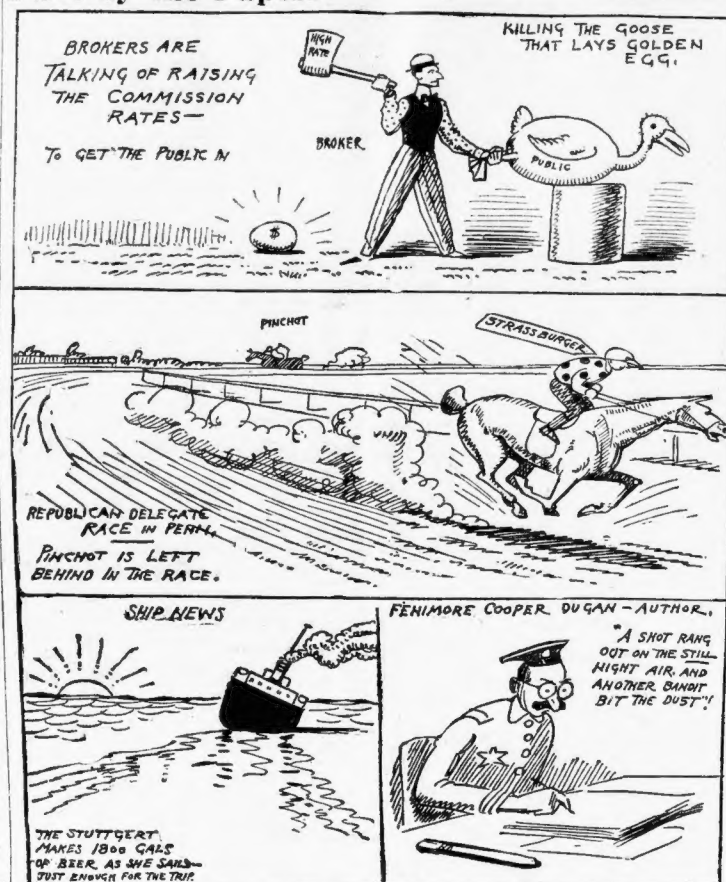

Such a call, if actually contemplated, would have about as much influence in the United States as for a man to climb the North Pole and issue a call for liver and bacon.

The great actress, Duse, did many things which the stage could emulate with profit and one of them was the way she avoided the patent pot. Too many stage people seem to think they must mire in grease.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

I've done it at last! Bobbed my hair, shaved, patted and patted into a coiffure.

You ask, why a SHOCK? It is to a woman—that first hair-cut!

You walk past the hairdresser's and back, four or five times.

You stop and gaze fascinatedly at the marvelous false pieces and "transfer" motions in the window and wonder if you could ever wear any of those "straw" hair.

You leave yourself, swallow hard, pick the door handle and hurry inside.

You turn and start to run out again, but a young woman with a relentless Mona Lisa smile bars your way.

For a moment you think you'll buy a tonic or a wig, and escape—but her smile disarms you, and batingly you confess your guilty secret.

She doesn't smile; she doesn't wink; she just smiles. It is the smile of Julia, of the Loret, of Circe, of Michaelis—of Ireland.

You are reassured. Indeed, look!

It looks like Mr. Editor, as though you will have to take up the fight if this evil is to be eradicated. I remarked to the chauffeur that it is highway robbery, and he immediately became abusive. I quite understand why, for these people should be run off the street of every municipality. The home number of this lachry which, I used was 92167.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE ARMY AS AN EDUCATOR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SOME time ago I wrote an article indicating that the eventual use of the army in the United States would be as an educational institution.

I advocated the advantage of having every boy and girl in the United States serve at least one year in Uncle Sam's uniform.

My thought was that the real value of the army, in civilization, is the real kernel of good contained in the army idea, is discipline.

I have received a letter from a lady who seems to be much heated over this question. She wants to know whether I have gone over to "the interests," whether I have thought the matter through and whether I do not realize that I am lending my influence to the propaganda for militarizing the United States, and so on. She further alleges that the real purpose of the Citizens' Military Training Camps is to inculcate war ideas and notions of military glory into the minds of boys. She alleges that this movement is headed straight for the hated European military system.

It seems to me that this lady is unduly exercised and somewhat confused.

She, and many others, do not realize that the army in the United States is not and never can be the kind of thing that armies are in other countries. That is, it cannot be an institution and cannot develop into a caste.

The real army of the United States must always be composed of its entire citizenry.

We are going to get rid of "militarism" not by abolishing the army, but by expanding the army to include every body.

It is only then that we will imbue the army with constructive ideals. It is only then that we shall consider the army as we should consider it; the training place for citizens.

The lady asks, if military training is so good for boys, why not apply it to girls?

I see no reason why not. I am entirely in favor of military training for girls quite as much as for boys.

By a recent constitutional amendment we recognized the citizenship of women. As citizens they should be taught their responsibilities and their duties to the nation. As citizens they need discipline, civic ideals and a sense of duty, quite as much as do the men.

The trouble with the nations of the old world is that soldiering has been a profession and the army has been an exclusive class.

Out of this condition of things has come the septic idea that patriotism means, somehow, only fighting and killing. When we get an army that is not and never can be the kind of thing that armies are in other countries, that is, it cannot be an institution and cannot develop into a caste.

The trouble with the nations of the old world is that soldiering has been a profession and the army has been an exclusive class.

Out of this condition of things has come the septic idea that patriotism means, somehow, only fighting and killing. When we get an army that is not and never can be the kind of thing that armies are in other countries, that is, it cannot be an institution and cannot develop into a caste.

The real army of the United States must always be composed of its entire citizenry.
